Good Attendance

22,852 Persons At Exhibition On Opening Day

Despite pouring rains, intermittent showers, and low temperatures, thousands flocked to Edmonton's 67th annual summer fair, and after the first day of the six days of gate entertainment reached 22,852, a most satisfactory figure considering the adverse conditions, according to the fair committee's report to officials. Attendance on the first day of 1942 was 21,368.

The fair officially opened Monday night by Premier Ernest Manning. As the premier accompanied by members of the executive of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, came on the platform in front of the grandstand he was greeted with prolonged applause.

Manning's attendance is considered by officials as indicative of record attendance during the fair week. They point to the fact 8,000 children passed through the gates of the fair during the 1942 summer fair. It was Children's Day of that fair. Children's Day of the 1945 edition is on Thursday, at which time 15,000 visitors to Edmonton and Northern Alberta are expected to view the show.

A gate admission of 50 cents poured $7,200 through the parliamentary machines on opening day that was 10 per cent higher than to one combination—Star Puyler and Great Leader—in the first and second days.

Railway Coaches Pooled For Army

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—All railway passenger coaches in the United States today were placed at the disposal of the military services for use as hospital beds.

In announcing the action, the Office of War Resources said the result probably would be considerably less space on passenger trains.

The order in itself does not curtail civilian passenger service, but it establishes the machinery for the withdrawal of coaches as required by the armed services.

The order provides that all railway passenger coaches, exclusive of Pullman sleeping cars, may be used for such purposes as OWR may direct.

Gen. Gamelin Says:

Petain to Blame For Weakness In French Army

Second of a Series of Five Articles

Marshal Henri Petain and only caught at the Nuremberg trials to blame others for acts which he had approved, but was himself largely responsible for France's short-sighted war preparations, says Gen. Maurice-Gustave Gamelin, former commander of the French armies, in this second of a series of five articles.—EDITOR.

PARIS, July 17.—(AP)—French Marshal Petain's return, the question logically asked is: Did Petain interfere with your administration while you were supreme commander?

My answer is simple and complex. It is simple because, if I am to do justice to direct interference, I can say I never at least openly opposed him. To the contrary, he consistently approved of what I did.

He was the last of three commanders-in-chief of the French army, Joffre and Foch, unfortunately for us, having been killed.

The strongest paradox is if it were not explicable by political reasons, I would have recommended before the court martial, convened in advance by the very opinions he had approved and even advised.

But my answer also is complex—as compared to Marshal Petain's character. It weighed heavily on the destiny of France ever since 1919.

To be sure, Petain was a

Manchuria is the Chinese Indo-China border near the Gulf of Tonkin coast, 135 miles northeast of Harbin, capital of Indo-China, and 90 miles west of Yenan, the capital of Ninghsia (Ningbo) in China.

The high command said that Chinese forces occupied the town after a mutiny of puppet troops in Chungking, July 7. The puppet units surrendered to Chinese National forces, the communists, in the afternoon.

WAGERS INCREASE

The pile through the machine on the opening day of this fair was $27,588 in excess of the $28,760 wagered on the opening day of the 1942 fair, the last summer fair held here during the war period.

A large crowd attended the grandstand show, and watched the stellar display of firework displays that followed. An estimated 20,000 spectators crowded into the grandstand and overflowed into the bleachers in front of the grandstand for the evening performance.

Welcoming Premier Manning to the fair, Charles E. Wilson, managing director of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the president, Lee S. Williams, and the directors, read the official welcome as follows:

After having had the privilege of assisting in the war effort by loaning out our resources, we are now in a position of national defence for a term of nearly four years, it is a great pleasure to have this summer fair opened by one who through ability and opportunity plays an important part on the stage of our provincial and national affairs.

ALBERTA RECORD

During the war years, in spite of the very large number of the families who were producing, having to leave the services from the Edmonton district, the district still became the greatest producer of bacon in Canada, and in the year just closed the packing houses in Edmonton alone processed 260,000,000 pounds of bacon, thus reaching a high point of production of any sector in the whole Dominion. Much credit is due to the men of your department of agriculture and the University of Alberta for their assistance and guidance in assisting to bring this about.

Now that the war clouds are commencing to clear, and the bright sun of peace is appearing more is visible on the horizon, we turn our thoughts to our gallant sons who have served so nobly in the protection of our homes and country and look forward to the day when, with the development of our natural resources together with that of agriculture, they will be able to help us all in making Canada a lasting home in peace and security.

On behalf of the directors, the management and myself, I wish to thank you all for your interest in having here this evening to open our sixty-seventh exhibition.

Deputy Premier Manning referred to the fact that the fair was abandoned through some of the war years while the exhibition grounds were used for the production of Pioneering work accomplished at No. 3 "M" Depot, R.C.A.F. Premier Manning said that the 20,000 patriotic gallant men who had been trained at this depot and had carried the fight against the Nazi enemy in so many parts of the world.

He said that the opening day of the exhibition would be a day of the veterans' of this and the Great War, and fittingly so. Many can share in this gala occasion with their war-time friends who others can participate in these festivities. We are in the fact that their sons are returning home from the dangers of battle. This summer fair should be a grand and glorious occasion, a day of entertainment for all, and should be the most successful in the long history of the Midway.

MIDWAY THRONED

Thousands thronged the All-Canadian Midway and attended the bingo games and other concessions. The midway attractions were well attended after midnight as Edmonton and District residents determined to enjoy the fun and excitement in doing so to make the 67th summer fair a great success.

The exhibits were judged by the exhibition staff were commendable. From the moment the gates opened at 8 p.m. on the last night the visitors left early Tuesday morning, the exhibition moved smoothly in the plans made for the comfort and convenience of the public. Many improvements have been made to the grounds since the 1942 fair, and the visitors on Monday certainly appreciated them. These include the hard surfacing of many of the roads,

50,000 Home Units Before May 8 Next

MONTRAL, July 17.—(CP)—The Dominion government has given a statement that it has decided to turn out 50,000 housing units before the first anniversary of V.E. day. It was also announced yesterday that a delegation from the Canadian Builders Supply Association conferred with officials of the WarTime Industries Control Board.

The delegates said that the board informed them that manufacturers of building supplies had agreed to turn out 50,000 units of raw materials as well as labor, this industry taking precedence over shipyards, munitions and other war supplies.

Special officers have been appointed by the minister departments and labor departments to expedite the production and distribution of building materials and the supply of labor to the government to provide the funds.

Of the 50,000 housing units to be built, 40,000 will be built by private contractors and 10,000 by the government under a plan announced last week in which life insurance companies will contribute with the government to provide the funds.

Court to Decide Jap Repatriation

VANCOUVER, July 17.—(CP)—Three writs against the British Columbia government were filed yesterday in the Supreme Court Tuesday on behalf of a Canadian woman, a naturalized Japanese and a Japanese national, Dennis Murphy, counsel for the British Columbia Japanese, announced last night.

He said that their test cases seek a judicial order that the government to power to deport naturalized Japanese-Canadians and that steps already taken for that purpose are illegal. It is the first time naturalized Japanese who signed papers requesting repatriation did so under orders.

A number of Japanese families in all categories now live in interior British Columbia relocation centers throughout their evacuation from the coast, and are signing up if they wished to return to Japan or remain in Canada.

Mr. Murphy said many of the Japanese who signed the deportation papers later petitioned the B.C. Security Council to have their names struck from the list but their requests were denied.

WHERE'S ELMER?

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, July 17.—(UPI)—Usually someone else tells a baseball player when he's through—when it's time for him to quit the game. But Edward Joseph Mayo pronounced his own diamond obituary on Sept. 7, 1943. That was the dismal day on which the last-place Philadelphia Athletics traded him to Louisville of the American Association.

Infielder Mayo of the off hour figured he wouldn't even report to Louisville. He decided that he would quit baseball and concentrate upon his eye. He thought his case was hopeless, as far as his future in baseball was concerned. He knew—he thought he knew—that he was blinded in one eye.

All during the 1943 season with Connie Mack's A's he had fought against that blind spot in his left eye, and lost.

He wound up with a 219 batting average. The eye wouldn't function, after being struck by a pitched ball, during the final game. It suffered a retinal hemorrhage, muscular ruptures, etc.

Ed Mayo, 32, had surprised many in baseball when, on Nov. 1, of that year (1943) he was drafted by the Detroit Tigers. He said he had no idea what he did. He doesn't know what it's getting; I don't believe I'll ever report for spring training. Why should I? I'm the Tiger.

SPOT DISAPPEARED

THEN the miracle happened. During that off-season, the left eye suddenly responded to the treatment he had received throughout the summer with the Athletics. It began to work okay. The blind spot disappeared. So he took another crack at the baseball ball. Eddie Mayo did well in his first season with the Tigers last year, and was named the club's second baseman with the Bengals. He performed excellently afraid and wound up with a fast batting mark of .268. He had no eye trouble.

And this season he really went to town. He became the spark plug and main driving engine of the Tiger team as it entered its robust bid for the American League pennant. While it missed the narrow margin of "The Mayo" name has been mentioned in connection with the Tigers' success. Max George Shantz, who says: "Mayo is the club's key man." And Detroit baseball writers travelling with the club agree heartily.

Mayo, first genuine regular at Detroit's second base since the great Charlie Gehringer, has sparked the Tigers to a 100% winning record with the double play. Meanwhile, he has been doing his other field chores like a bennet rabbit, and he has been hitting consistently for a mark of about .288.

After the Tigers' defeat by the Yankees on a swampy field yesterday, Mayo was seen in the Yankee stadium locker room. How come he was such a ball of fire?

Cubs Rally in Last of Ninth For 16th Win in 17 Games

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—The National League pennant, Chicago's first since 1910, is within reach of the Cubbies, who are on their way to a 16th victory in 17 starts.

Van Lingle Mungo had the Bruins pulled until the final out, but the 8-4 edge fate date as the Boston Red Sox were beaten twice over two markers.

A walk, an error and successive singles by Harry (Peanut) Lowrey and Paul Giplein produced the winning runs.

Scouting on the Bruins' side, Eddie Mayo was the club's key man. And Detroit baseball writers travelling with the club agree heartily.

Mayo, first genuine regular at Detroit's second base since the great Charlie Gehringer, has sparked the Tigers to a 100% winning record with the double play. Meanwhile, he has been doing his other field chores like a bennet rabbit, and he has been hitting consistently for a mark of about .288.

After the Tigers' defeat by the Yankees on a swampy field yesterday, Mayo was seen in the Yankee stadium locker room. How come he was such a ball of fire?

"Backing up?"

"Yes," Mayo explained, "so that I'm standing back further from the plate. I'm giving a little more room at the ball. And I'm playing many of the opposition batters much farther back on the grass—30 or 35 feet. I'm getting them out further than any other second baseman in the league. You see, I figure that the first baseman and the pitcher can handle short drives in my area, so I can get them out without putting the longer drives, when I play 30 or 35 feet deep. It has been working."

So we find the second sacker who pronounced his own baseball obituary in 1943, now standing out as the best second baseman made in the American League.

COUNTESS Is Visitor

France is facing a severe difficult winter according to Countess de Hauteclerc, wife of the newly appointed French Ambassador to Canada, who is an Economic Commission member. There will be a lack of food and fuel, due to lack of transportation.

The countess was living in the northern part of France in one of the towns bordering on Germany before the German invasion. When the Germans reached her territory, they made her quickly leave her home and left her with only two rooms. Thelessness of the enemy, and her own present condition, made danger and death not prevent her from taking an active part in the underground.

HELPS PRISONERS

French prisoners-of-war escape, aiding the return of Allied airmen shot down over French territory, and the French underground has kept the country busy with the growth of war during the last few years.

Countess de Hauteclerc arrived in the early summer of 1944, soon after returning to France for two and one half months.

Revolts for the shelling of wood the countess organized, so the French forests provided hiding places for desperate people, so the Germans had to stop.

Much of French territory is still maintained. Due to this fact, the French have been compelled to live in caves to protect themselves from the grave situation, the French have conscripted Nazi prisoners to help restore the confidence of their own people to return to the soil.

France is still recovering from the destruction of Chinon, and in this way they help restore and summer camps where it is hoped that they will regain their health. They have also organized groups of children who left the cities to regain their health have been killed by the mines they have been expressed by the Countess.

Paris, in spite of its lack of luxuries, is still a beautiful city and has barely been touched by the ravages of war.

The Countess, upon her second return to Canada, is now staying at "Loves Canada," and is looking forward to the tour they will make through the West Coast of Canada to California, where the new ambassador's duties will take them. They will definitely travel back to Oshawa, by boat, and return to Canada on December 1, 1945.

After the wedding a reception was held to 40 guests at the Cottage Tearoom. In the evening a wedding party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon in Macdonald-Baptist Camp, Miss Ruth Hardinge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hardinge of Bowmore, Scotland, and Mrs. Charles D. Aldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Aldridge.

The bride is a registered nurse and a graduate of the General hospital, Grace Bay, N.S.

Housing Needs, Harvest Help Being Studied

Ottawa and Hull are being used as "guinea pigs" at the present time by the Dominion department of labor to determine where the main bottleneck lies in completing the current house-building program. Fred J. White, of Winnipeg, regional superintendent of the unemployment insurance commission said here Tuesday.

Mr. White, a former Labor member of the Manitoba legislature, was conferring with R. M. Putnam, assistant to the deputy minister of labor, on a study pertaining to the exchange of harvest help between eastern and western Canada.

USED ONTARIO WORKERS

The prairie provinces utilized the services of 3,600 Ontario farm workers last fall, while 1,700 prairie workers helped harvest eastern crops previous to the western harvest.

In his conference with Alberta agricultural officials Mr. White hopes to determine the approximate number of workers from that province that will be required for the harvest in this province this fall. Several hundred more prairie workers, provinces have already gone east for the harvest there.

Mr. White said that the early beginning of the harvest in the West should result in a real speeding up on the completion of the western home-building construction throughout the Dominion.

SHORTAGES APPARENT

Already the shortages are becoming apparent, with lumber supplies and materials showing up as bad bottlenecks.

Following completion of the Ontario housing program the government will probably give the green light for the manufacture of the materials which are now in short supply. A program must or there will be a redistribution of available materials as the government's policy of reconstruction—that of homes for veterans—can be proceeded with first.

Grummett Is House Leader CCF Group

TORONTO, July 17.—(CP)—W. J. Grummett, leader of the Ontario Legislature for Cochrane South, has been named leader of the CCF group in the Ontario legislature. He was learned Monday. Mr. Grummett, Ansonville lawyer, succeeds G. B. Johnson who has York South in the seat since June 4. Mr. Jolliffe remains head of the Ontario CCF.

CANADA'S FIRST "UNOFFICIAL" SOLDIER—John Wolfe, 27-year-old hospital orderly, left, and his mother, Sophie, right, are shown under treatment for a shattered thigh at a Canadian military hospital near Watford, England. John Wolfe is the Canadian Army's first "unofficial" soldier. He teamed up with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles in No Man's Land—a refugee from the Germans—but the Canadians could give him neither pay, rank nor privilege. He got a uniform, however, and during his six months with the regiment, killed 28 Germans and took hundreds more as prisoners. Seen here with Nursing Sister Isobel McLean, right, Mrs. Wolfe said she had heard about John Wolfe's exploit was to fight and kill Germans. "You see, my family was quartered in Poland in 1942," she said. Wolfe's officers have nothing but praise for the way he fought throughout the campaigns at the Scheldt, Nijmegen, both sides of the Rhine and inside Germany. Now he wants to stay in England and work as an interpreter.

Give Citations Of Army Awards

Lance Cpl. James A. W. Woodford, 30-year-old member of the Canadian Army overseas and peace-time resident of Jarvis, was awarded the Military Medal, previously announced, while in command of a platoon section in the Royal Edmonton Regiment in Europe.

This was revealed Tuesday in a citation for the award released by the department of national defence.

During the Senio River campaign, Woodford's section occupied a bridgehead and held it under intense fire from enemy self-propelled guns. He acted as a leader and鼓舞士气, leading his men across an open, 40-yard stretch to make his report. At the same time he led his belongings off of a number of tracks from which he realized the strategic value of his position.

In-City-Camp Here Now in Operation

Although the Edmonton and District Boys' Work Board Camp at Russell Memorial church opened its doors to boys on June 1, the camp for boys, according to Vice-President of the Royal Canadian Spruce, 10230 121 street, will be in charge of arrangements. The camp will continue until July 30.

Bruce Stainton will be the director of the camp, he will be assisted by four young leaders, all of whom have had considerable experience in camp work.

The camp begins at 9:30 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. each day except Saturday and Sunday. The cost of the two weeks' camp is 50 cents for each boy. Free milk is provided.

The program includes handicrafts, baseball, swimming, hiking, camp fires, and educational moving pictures.

The camp is for boys from 10 to 14 years of age.

To Probe Rackets Worked on Veterans

MacKersons and a lot of others, many of whom don't consider themselves as doing anything dishonest, when they swing as much money as they do, are the subject of a new survey in Edmonton.

This was revealed Tuesday in a citation for the award released by the department of national defence.

The camp played an important role in the resistance movement, leading to the 1944 raid and imprisonment.

A short time later he escaped the Gestapo and was recaptured by General Leclerc, who raised the French flag over the Quai d'Orsay.

Commandant de MacMahon is a grandson of a former president of France and graduate of a top French military academy.

He became a member of the French military mission to Poland in 1938, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre for gallantry in military action.

He also occupied other French posts until the Battle of France, 1940, in which campaign he was again decorated. In 1943 he joined General Leclerc's forces in North Africa and in June, 1944, was sent to Canada as military and air attaché.

Three Infantile Cases Reported

Only three cases of poliomyelitis have been reported this summer in one of the most densely populated areas of the Alberta, and has existed in some year, Dr. A. Somerville, provincial director of communicable diseases, said yesterday.

The three infantile paralysis cases reported were scattered districts.

Last year there were about 50 cases of the dread disease in the province at this time and there were 100 to 150 cases before the season was over.

There have been no other outbreaks of serious disease, Dr. Somerville said.

King to Address Nominating Meet Glenary Riding

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will make his first political speech since the general election campaign when he addresses the Canadian National riding meeting in Alexandria, Ont., to night.

His constituency of Glenary has been opened for Mr. King following his defeat in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, in the general election.

Mr. King is expected to choose Mr. King as Liberal candidate at the forthcoming nomination meeting.

Mr. Diamond resigned to make way for Mr. King after being elected Liberal member for the constituency.

Official nomination day is set for July 30 and if other candidates offer themselves, the by-election voting will take place on Aug. 6.

France's Needs May Increase Canada's Trade

Desperate need felt in France for Canadian produce, such as food, medical supplies and clothing, was cited as a prospect for increased trade between the two countries by Count André Hauteclerc, French ambassador to Canada.

The ambassador, with his wife and daughter, Françoise, is making his first tour of Western Canada, and was in Edmonton Monday evening. He met with Lt. Col. Michel Dumont, press attaché, and Commandant Maurice de MacMahon, Canadian attaché at the French embassy in Ottawa.

MUST REORGANIZE

His Excellency said it may take five years to again reorganize France as an efficient economic unit. He told the reporters his visit would be accomplished, to give France a place as one of the foremost members of the United Nations.

He spoke also of the great feeling of friendliness which France has for Canada.

The Ambassador

The ambassador is the son of an ancient Artois family. In the First Great War he was wounded and subsequently became a citizen of Canada. In 1919 he was named attaché at the French embassy in Rio de Janeiro and later occupied the post of attaché at Timisoara, Bucharest, Syria and Palestine.

When France fell in 1940, he received a call to join the Vichy government and made his family home at Bermeuil in Northern France.

He was released from prison and was cared for by Madame Hauteclerc and their seven daughters.

HAD IMPORTANT ROLE

The count played an important role in the resistance movement, leading to the 1944 raid and imprisonment.

A short time later he escaped the Gestapo and was recaptured by General Leclerc, who raised the French flag over the Quai d'Orsay.
